"Every vote counts"

Recount doubles Cross' margin of victory in tight selectmen's race

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A manual vote recount last Thursday confirmed Jack Cross' victory over Dutch Dresser for the second open seat on the Bethel Board of Selectmen.

The initial results from the June 14 balloting gave Cross a one-vote, 206-205 victory over Dresser. Dennis Doyon won the other of the two open seats, with a tally of 229.

Both Cross and Dresser were incumbents; Doyon is a newcomer to the board.

There were two other candidates, Bob Everett and Wally Hannigan, who received 100 and 70 votes respectively.

Dresser subsequently asked for a recount, only to see each of the four other candidates receive one additional vote, while his own total stayed at 205 — two votes less than Cross received.

By one vote, Gilead Planning Board dodges dissolution

By ALISON ALOISIO

"Gilead, Massachusetts," commented one disgruntled voter at the end of last Wednesday's special Town Meeting.

Residents had just voted 33-32 to preserve the town's fledgling Planning Board. For those who had hoped to disband the board, the outcome of the vote leaves them fearful of more regulation over building projects. They worried that Gilead would become more like towns in southern New England.

The voters also approved the adoption of ordinances governing floodplain management, shoreland zoning, lot size and setbacks, subdivisions and the Planning Board itself.

The meeting was called originally to consider the ordinances. But a citizen petition, circulated by Joe Taylor, added an article to vote on abolishing the board.

The two-hour meeting was moderated by Vern Maxfield, Woodstock's town manager. A one-hour discussion period preceded voting on the specific articles.

Use state rules
The board was established last year to relieve selectmen of the responsibility of dealing with building project applications.

Former selectman Jay Milot had supported the establishment of a Planning Board. But, he said at the meeting, his intent had been that the board simply review and apply existing ordinances.

Instead, he said, the board has proposed additional ones. "It's not what I envisioned," he said.

He said the ordinances would place more restrictions on small property owners, while large developers would find ways to "punch holes in the ordinances."

Milot said the town should follow state regulations instead of adopting ordinances, and rely on the Department of Environmental Protection to deal with environmental issues.

Darlene Corriveau agreed. She also said subdivision regulation should be left to the covenants established by the developer.

As for the quality of roads in subdivisions, an issue of concern to many residents, Corriveau said buyers should do their own research before purchasing a lot.

Taylor said the selectmen had done a satisfactory job previously in reviewing project applications. "It was a sim-

Greenwood officials are dissatisfied with the quality of last summer's paving work

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Unhappy with the quality of paving on recent road projects, Greenwood officials are considering hiring someone to oversee the work of private paving contractors.

Last summer, the town paid Rampart Bituminous of Portland $63,809 for paving sections of the Greenwood, Old County, Yates and Young Hill roads.

But several residents have complained about the quality of the jobs, and last week

Road Foreman Alan Seames appeared before the Board of Selectmen to express his own frustration.

Seames said it is extremely difficult for him to watch over paving contractors, because he is often busy with road work elsewhere in town.

At the request of Town Manager Kim Sparks, "a neutral party," S.W. Cole Engineering of Augusta, recently inspected the roads in question, and found damage that appeared to be the result of the paving.

ment being too thin.

Rampart's bid for the work calls for laying two inches of pavement, but wrote Russell Bragg of the engineering firm, "The pavement on each of the roads appears to be raveling at the edges of the pavement section and in areas that were placed less than two inches thick. ... It appears the raveling is due to insufficient thickness."

Rampart has acknowledged there is a problem, Sparks said.

This spring, Seames, Sparks and Rampart president Tom Gibson walked the section of the Greenwood Road that was paved last summer.

Gibson agreed there was a problem and promised to make it right with the town, Sparks said.

But the town and Rampart disagree on what needs to be done to correct the problem.

Gibson suggested laying another two inches of hot top and guaranteeing it for a year, but Seames, Sparks and the Board of Selectmen prefer that the current pavement first be ground up.

Seames and Sparks were

Maine-N.H. state line no longer a barrier for snowmobilers

By MICHAEL DANIELS/AP

A dispute between Maine and New Hampshire over access to snowmobile trails has melted away with passage of a law that allows use of some trails by riders from across the border.

Snowmobilers can now ride on New Hampshire Trail 18 and Maine ITS Trail 80 regardless of which of the two states their sleds are registered in.

The agreement covers a popular 70-mile Evans Notch loop from Bethel to Songo and Crocker ponds, Evergreen Valley, Deer Hill, Route 113, Gilead, then back to Bethel.

Only two miles of the loop are in New Hampshire, but prior to the agreement the threat of heavy fines if they were caught on those two miles deterred local riders from riding the loop, according to Robert Lowell, trailmaster of the Bethel SnowTwisters.

Now, Lowell said Wednesday, "We're just happy campers."

A bill signed Friday by Maine Gov. John Baldacci designates parts of both trails as Maine-New Hampshire Cooperative Trails. Both states will pay for maintenance and grooming.

New Hampshire Gov. John Lynch praised the agreement, saying snowmobiling is an important part of the culture and economies of both states.

Before the bill was signed, Maine required nonresidents to register their machines if they wanted to use Maine's trails. New Hampshire had a similar requirement.

Both states had full reciprocity for several years. But Maine ended the agreement early this year, saying too many New Hampshire riders were using its trails without contributing to the cost of maintaining them.

NTL recommits to Bethel, but will explore changes

By ALISON ALOISIO

The National Training Laboratory Board of Directors voted unanimously last week to "maintain a presence" in Bethel.

NTL does plan, however, to seek possible buyers or business partners for its property here.

"In its strategic examination of the future of NTL, the board recognized that both the organization and the community could benefit from a different approach to NTL's current seasonal use of its property," said a press release.

The board decided to "engage others to address real estate management and ownership issues while the organization focused its energies on developing timely, cutting edge programs."

NTL owns property off Broad Street in Bethel. Earlier this year, NTL announced it planned to get out of the lodging business and have its participants stay in other local lodging places.

In reaching its conclusion to seek buyers or partners, the board considered several factors: financial information regarding NTL resources and the Bethel property; a survey of members regarding Bethel and the property; consultants' reports on options for use of the property, including market analysis of other Bethel and nearby properties; an appraisal of the value of the land and buildings; web-based discussions by the membership; telephone interviews with a random sample of 10 percent of the membership; data from program participants at Bethel and other NTL sites from the past three years.

In a prepared release, NTL said its long history in the community and the significance of Bethel to scholars and practitioners in the field of applied behavioral science are a strong attraction for program participants from around the world.

A benefit to businesses
In planning for next year, said Margaret Tyndall, president of NTL, "We are exploring other locations in Bethel for 2006 so as to be prepared for a number of different scenarios." Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, said NTL's future plans should benefit the business community.

Last season's skier-visit increase at Sunday River lagged behind ASC's other eastern resorts

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Skier visits to Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry were up slightly last season, but not as much as at other eastern resorts owned by its parent company, the American Skiing Company.

Sunday River tallied 524,861 visits for the season, an increase of 0.4 percent.

ASC's four other eastern resorts, Attitash in New Hampshire, Killington and Mount Snow in Vermont and Sugarloaf/USA in Maine reported increases of 1.9, 3.3, 7 and 9.4 percent respectively.

The skier visit information is contained in a report filed annually with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Sunday River spokesperson Susan Duplessis attributed the lower growth figure here to soft group sales and the fact that the other eastern resorts were offering discounted season passes for the first time.

Last season was the second year Sunday River offered the discounted passes.

"The larger increases in skier visits enjoyed by some of our sister resorts reflect their first seasons with the discounted season pass, while we are in our second year, Duplessis

A WONDERFUL TRADITION

To the Editor:

I wish to thank Jordan Ginsberg and Brad Jerome for their willingness to undertake the challenge of assembling this year's Independence Day Celebration, and assuming the responsibilities thereof. Jordan had the foresight to order the fireworks early, and Brad the imagination to see that the display could be seen as a finale to the Art Fair (from which it was separated years ago by vote of the Chamber Board) if it were held on July 2 instead of the eve of the Fourth of July. Jordan and Brad appear to work well together, and I trust they will continue to do so in the future, to ensure that this wonderful tradition endures.

As past chairman of the event for several years, I had expressed my opinion that it was totally inappropriate for anything so totally nationally inspired and community cohesive to be managed completely by any one person; if such a day in our history is to be honored and observed, the entire community should be involved. I personally approached several of the many clubs, societies, associations, and organizations within the area. Active involvement in the celebration was declined by all.

Because of the change of date from the eve of the Fourth of July, the previously planned entertainment has declined participation, but the Bethel Inn and Country Club will provide entertainment through Rob Robbins downstairs at the inn.

I wish to thank the citizens and businesses of the Bethel area for their contributions in past years, and to express my fervent hope that they will take the initiative in the future to band together (as did our forefathers) to make Independence Day as solid a celebration and tradition as are others, such as Molloycockett Day.

I should like to reiterate my willingness to assist, if desired, in any future celebrations of the founding of this great nation.

SUMMER SOLSTICE THANKS

To the Editor:

The first day of sunshine in recent memory provided an extra special and festive setting for the fourth Summer Solstice Sculpture Race and Celebration of Midsummer's Day at The Meadow last week.

Thanks to the many, many volunteers who helped to make the Midsummer Festival such a success. This was truly a community effort, and everyone who attended seemed to have a wonderful time.

Appreciation is due to the following sponsors who have supported the festival this year, making it possible for us to offer such a wonderful day's activities free to all: The Outlook, Spirit Wings, Anne and Gary Stuer, The Jolly Draymen at the Briar Lea Inn, Timberlake's Home Store, The Bethel Citizen, Playhouse Antiques, Rosie Trentham, The Good Food Store, Professional Massage Therapy/Sharon Lyon, Betsey Foster, Groan and McGurn, Jim and Carrie Sysko, Vicki Irons, Log Cabin Craftworks.

Special recognition goes to Woody Hughes for creating the beautiful trophies for the sculpture race again this year, to Jim Owen and Arla Patch for giving their time as judges for this event as they have happily every year, and to Jack Nordahl and Sara Wright for their discussions of science and the solstice.

The Festival Committee gratefully acknowledges also generous support from The Maine Community Foundation and the Mahoosuc Arts Council, without which this day of celebration and festivities would not be possible.

WILL BE WORTH SEEING

To the Editor:

The upcoming "Shy, Novice & Closeted Artist" show is going to be worth seeing.

The art show is this Saturday, July 2, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Therapeutic Massage, 18 High Street, directly behind Key Bank and Ruthie's Bethel Spa Motel.

Stop in while on your way to or from the annual Bethel Art Fair on the common. You'll be delighted to discover the many artists living in our midst.

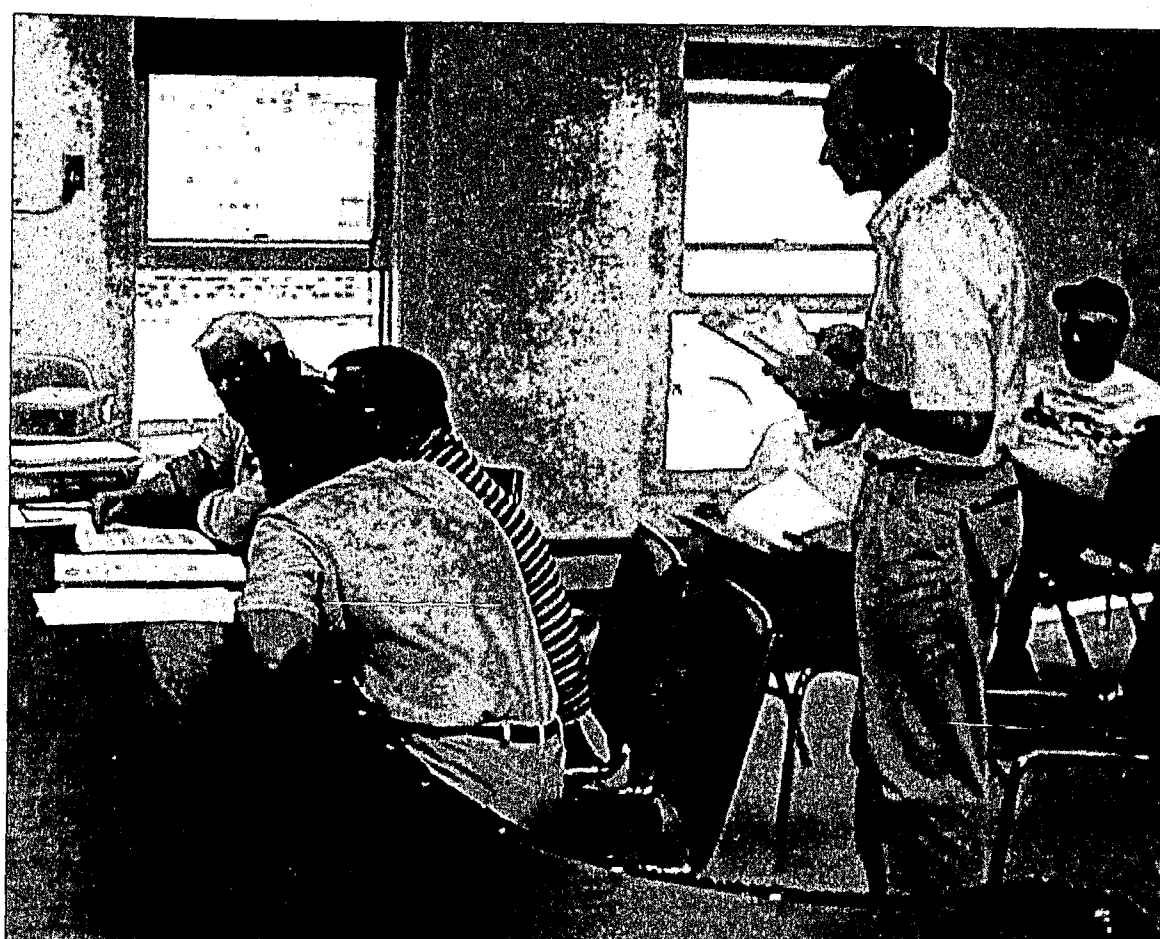

This past fall I happened upon an art show in the city of Athens, Greece. There was glasswork, metal, wood, paintings, photography, embroidery and more. The "artists" were all city employees. The Shy, Novice & Closeted Artist art show offers a similar opportunity, to meet people of your community beyond their job role and the opportunity to experience art.

The show provides exhibition space and moral support for any art you have created and are willing to show.

Bring one piece or many. There is ample display space both in and out of doors.

Shy, novice and closeted artist, please bring your art for set-up anytime this week prior to 9 a.m. Saturday. Contact me at 824-3889 for information and moral support to get you and your art to the show.

A MANUAL RECOUNT last Thursday confirmed the results of the previous week's balloting for seat on the Bethel Board of Selectmen (story, page 1). Selectmen (seated from top) Don Bennett, Reggie Brown and Stan Howe conducted the recount. Standing behind the recount is Kirk Siegel, attorney for defeated candidate Dutch Dresser, (seated behind Siegel). Bob Everett, also defeated last week, is seated behind Dresser.

Gilead

ple process. They were very fair with people," he said.

Others said some of the voters supporting the Planning Board and the ordinances moved here recently, and now want to prevent others from doing the same.

Supporters' arguments
Selectman Paul Handlen said his board is not the best choice to deal with applications.

He said, for example, that an upcoming project would present a problem for the selectmen.

He is personally involved in it, he said, and selectman Mark Wigley is an abutter, so neither could vote on it.

That would leave one selectman, Fernand Corriveau, who could not act alone.

Wigley, who also supported keeping the Planning Board, said that during the early 1990s, when Gilead had had another Planning Board, a developer had done a poor job in building a road. It was the planners who took the issue to DEP and got the road built to state standards, he said.

That board was disbanded by town vote in 1990.

Ken Cole also supported the Planning Board. "Who's going to enforce the state rules?" he asked.

Cole said large parcels of land in Gilead would soon be available for possible development.

He said it was important to ensure road access for emergency vehicles.

Jack Pucak, chairman of the Planning Board, said it is difficult now to apply state rules because they "are spread out in a number of places."

It would be better, he said, for the town to have its own ordinances available to give to applicants, and a Planning Board to oversee them.

But Corriveau questioned the legality of the ordinances, and the new planners' qualifications in administering them.

Pucak said the ordinances had been reviewed by the Maine Municipal Association and the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments.

And, he said, while planners do not have all the answers, they can use those organizations as resources to get information.

Several other residents spoke in favor of the town having an organized approach to dealing with the increasing rate of development in Gilead.

Articles shuffled

The article regarding the abolishment of the Planning Board was last on the agenda.

But after voters approved the Floodplain Management Ordinance and the Planning Board Ordinance by secret ballot votes of 45-20 and 34-28, respectively, some called for the abolishment article to be moved up on the agenda.

The change was approved. After the article was narrowly defeated, about two dozen voters left the meeting.

The Shoreland Zoning Ordinance was then easily approved, 33-8.

The last two articles were voted upon by a show of hands.

The lot size/setback ordinance and the Subdivision Ordinance were overwhelmingly approved.

Last week's meeting had been postponed from its original date of June 15 because a moderator was not available for that evening.

In our back yard:

Small spills can do large harm

'Tis the season for mowing lawns and motor boating and other outside related activities that involve the storage and handling of household gasoline.

Safe handling of gasoline is one of those important topics that bear repeating every year because gasoline is one of the most dangerous chemicals with which we routinely come in contact. It is both flammable and toxic, and, when spilled on the ground, constituents of gasoline can move quickly through the ground and contaminate groundwater.

In the past there was much concern about the groundwater contamination potential and toxicity of the gasoline additive MTBE (a possible cancer-causing agent), which was designed to make car engines burn more cleanly.

The levels of MTBE in Maine's gasoline have been reduced, and legislation has been passed to eliminate it in Maine by 2007.

But, we should remember that all the compounds found in traditional gasoline are toxic, and some (like benzene) are known to cause cancer in humans. Gasoline with or without MTBE is nothing we want to pour on our corn flakes.

The flammability of gasoline is also important to keep in mind. Starting a brush fire with gasoline is begging for trouble. The initial flash from burning gasoline catches many people off guard, and can cause major burns. But, there is also the longer term risk of water pollution. Using gasoline to start a brush fire once and only once can contaminate a nearby well.

There is plenty we can do to make sure that groundwater contamination and fire from gasoline spills do not endanger us and our families. Household gasoline should be stored in approved containers, preferably in one of the new spill-proof gas cans and located in a detached shed or garage out of reach of children, and all storage and fueling should be done far away and down slope from wells.

We can also buy only what we need, so we are not stuck with old gas at the end of the season. If we do end up with leftover gas, adding a gasoline stabilizer within 30 days of purchase will extend its life. That old gummy gas is considered a hazardous waste. The only safe way to dispose of it is to bring it to a local household hazardous waste drop off day.

Where household gasoline is contained, less is best. We can reduce the amount of gas we use by buying human-powered or energy-efficient tools and toys, storing only what gas we need, and being vigilant against spillage. It is best that we limit our exposure to gasoline; no matter how useful it is, because it is and always will be a hazardous material.

For more information on the safe use and storage of household gasoline go to "Tips for Handling Gasoline" at www.MaineDEP.com.

Branch Brook Bridge under repair

NEWRY — A project to repair the Branch Brook Bridge is getting underway, and the Maine Department of Transportation is asking drivers to use caution as they approach the site. The bridge carries Route 26 over Branch Brook about seven miles north of Route 2. The existing concrete bridge will be removed and replaced. There will be alternating one-way traffic across a temporary bridge, with traffic signals on each end. The contract for the project, awarded to Technical Construction Inc. of Turner on a bid of nearly $619,000, calls for completion by Nov. 1.

Tea to honor the late Betsy Baker

RUMFORD POINT — The Rumford Point Congregational Church, UCC, at the corner of routes 2 and 232, in Rumford Point, invites friends and acquaintances of the late Elizabeth "Betsy" Baker to an afternoon tea held in her memory. The tea will be held Saturday, July 2 at 2 p.m. at the church. Baker was a long time member of the Rumford Point church and friend of the community. She lived in the stately home behind the church. At one time, she and her mother ran a tea room at their residence called the Sophisticated Shed. Betsy, as she was affectionately known, lived well into her nineties, passing away in 2001. Several years ago, a memory garden was established at the church in memory of past members and friends of the church. Those attending the tea will also be able to tour the garden. Everyone is welcome.

Slow down on Merrifield Hill

WOODSTOCK — The Route 26 reconstruction project on Merrifield Hill is underway. The work calls for reconstruction of the existing roadway, including a new climbing lane for southbound traffic, a new roadway base, new drainage and a new paved surface. Some of the roadside slopes will also be stabilized to reduce erosion and improve drainage. The project begins at the Dudley Road, just south of the intersection of Routes 26 and 232 and extends north for about nine-tenths of a mile to the bottom of Merrifield Hill. During the work period, the speed limit will be 45 mph. Northbound traffic will approach from an area that has a 55 mph limit.

Region 9 salary hikes approved

MEXICO — The Region 9 School of Applied Technology board last week approved raises for the program director and adult education director. Director David Driscoll will earn $74,000 in a contract that ends in one year. Nancy Murphy, the adult education director, will earn just under $45,000 during the second year of a two-year contract. SAD44 is member of Region 9. The board also learned last week that because of a change in population in the 2000 census, the votes of SAD44's members will be weighted slightly more in the future.

Changes at transfer station

WEST PARIS — West Paris has received approval from the Department of Environmental Protection to expand the town's transfer station. Plans call for creating a new entrance and moving the recycling bins. The change will improve service and the flow of traffic at the station, officials said.

New forest land tax incentives

AUGUSTA — A new approach to preserving and properly managing Maine's forest land by offering income tax incentives rather than heaping on more regulations has been signed into law by Gov. John Baldacci. "It's designed to be a carrot rather than a stick," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Patrick S.A. Flood of Winthrop, adding, "It sends a very positive signal to landowners." More than a year in the works, the bill was overshadowed by larger issues such as state finances, racinos and property tax reform during the session that ended in mid-June. Flood, a Republican, noted his bill won the support of the Democratic administration as well as small-woodlot owners' organization. The Maine Pulp and Paper Association also voiced its support for the measure. Maine already has what's known as a "tree growth" law that offers property tax breaks for keeping land from being developed. But landowners also face significant financial penalties for developing land once they are in the program, and taxes are often levied retroactively. Flood's bill offers a graduated reduction in the state income tax to individuals and corporations if timberland larger than 10 acres and kept under the same ownership for at least 10 years is not developed and is managed properly. Tax break eligibility begins in year 11 of ownership. Deductions are increased incrementally until they reach their peak at 25 years of ownership, when the tax deduction reaches 100 percent of the gain on the sale. The tax deduction is offered only at the time of sale, said Flood. "To receive this benefit, the owner must also prove that he or she had practiced sustainable forestry," said Flood, a registered guide and conservation consultant. The Department of Conservation decides what constitutes "sustainable" forestry. A licensed forester must certify that the land is managed in a way that sustains its productivity. Flood sees the bill as an adjunct to other steps taken earlier this year to control property taxes, describing it as "a small step" in the direction of relief for landowners.

Card info scammed in restaurants

PORTLAND — Several restaurant patrons in southern Maine were victims of high-tech credit card fraud when someone used an electronic device to steal information from their cards before running up tabs, police say. Police in Falmouth and Freeport are investigating allegations of "skimmers" being used to copy information from customers' credit cards. In the Falmouth case, thieves using the data spent more than $10,000 in California and Las Vegas, police said. "It is something that has been perfected in cities, but there is no reason why it should be just practiced there," said Robert McCrie, a security management professor at John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York City. A typical skimmer the size of a pager can store data from the magnetic strips of up to 100 credit cards. The person using the skimmer swipes the card through the device, and the information is later downloaded onto a computer. The credit card information is used to buy items over the phone or Internet, or to make new cards. The information also can be used to apply for credit cards.

said. "For the coming year, we will continue to upgrade our base facilities and we've put steps in place to increase our group visits back to where we were a few years ago."

"We feel we have great momentum going in to the 2005-06 season."

Overall, Duplessis said, "We enjoyed a strong year in many aspects. Early season storms in Maine added to our intensive snowmaking efforts in November and December, and our conditions were consistent throughout the season, not just February and March when all of New England received ample natural snow."

"Our guest surveys showed higher scores in nearly every category from service, food and snow conditions to the overall experience. We were pleased with the success of new promotions and with the feedback we received from guests on our base improvements."

In addition to its holdings in New England, ASC also owns two western resorts, The Canyons in Utah and Steamboat in Colorado. The Canyons reported an increase for last season of 7.6 percent, while Steamboat — the only ASC resort to post more than 1 million visits for the 2003-2004 season — saw skier visits drop by 3.1 percent, to 971,770.

Industry-wide skier visits topped 56.4 million, making it the fourth best season on record, according to the National Ski Areas Association.

Since the early 1990s skier visits have generally held flat nationally.

"It's a terrific thing that they're very committed to maintaining a significant presence here," she said Wednesday.

"Getting away from facility maintenance, Zinchuk said, "will help them to focus on their core mission."

And if lodging and dining shifts to the greater community, "it could have a greater economic impact," she said.

NTL has a full slate of activities planned for this summer, including a two-week member gathering from Aug. 6-19. The "NTL Fest 2005" will include presentations by NTL members on a variety of topics, work sessions on issues important to the organization, and social events.

NTL has had a presence in Bethel since its founding in 1947. In the early 1990s, the organization considered pulling out of Bethel, but reconsidered after the business community and many NTL members spoke out in favor of staying.

NTL said the release, is dedicated to the creation of knowledge and training about applied behavioral sciences, and provides public programs in the areas of interpersonal effectiveness, organization development, and diversity.

scheduled to meet again with Gibson yesterday afternoon (Wednesday) to inspect the roads and discuss a solution.

Earlier Wednesday, Gibson told The Citizen he planned to hot top the Greenwood Road next week.

But, he said, he did not plan to grind the present pavement.

The selectmen last week agreed the town also had to make an effort to see that future paving jobs are monitored more closely, perhaps by hiring someone to do so.

Snow Falls windfall

SENECA CORRIVEAU OF BETHEL is the winner of this year's Mollycodd Treasure Hunt. Last Thursday she found the Mollycodd medallion hidden in the notch of a fence post at Snow Falls. The first two clues convinced her Snow Falls was a likely location, she said, and last week's clue — a reference to the final line in Robert Frost's well-known poem, "Mending Wall" — led her to fences; and other structures that can mark boundaries. The $500 prize will be presented on Mollycodd Day, July 16. Here, Kaiya, 5½, and Samuel, 1½, celebrate their mom's success.

Gas giveaways latest lure for summer tourists

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Resort towns, from Bethel and other Maine towns all the way to California, worried that high gas prices will keep visitors away are offering an incentive from: a free tank of gas.

The towns are tapping into motorists' anger over high gas prices during the summer tourism season to offer encouragement to drive a little farther. For some, the promotions have been so successful that they're becoming a summer tradition.

California's Big Bear Lake recently extended its spring promotion — a $25 gas voucher — for the entire summer because it was so successful.

"It's a good incentive, especially considering gas prices in southern California," said Dan Dunning, who lives in Orange County, Calif. He used the voucher to help fill the tank of his SUV while visiting Big Bear with his parents.

Such gas giveaways have become an increasingly popular marketing tool as gas prices continue to rise, said Justin McNaull from American Automobile Association.

"Gas prices are certainly something that people talk about. Even if high gas prices play a comparatively small part of your overall travel costs, some people perceive them as a much larger factor than they actually are," McNaull said.

Gas giveaways are an effective outreach tool because they show that the tourism industry empathizes with cost-conscious travelers, said Cathy Keefe, spokeswoman for the Travel Industry Association of America in Washington, D.C.

"It's one of those things that's a small gesture that makes for a huge goodwill effort. Travelers appreciate it. We're all watching our pennies, but we're all continuing to travel," said Keefe, who says overall travel will be up this summer.

Across the country, the promotions go by names like "Tanks a Lot," "Got Free Gas" or "Have a Gas on Us."

Bethel's "Tanks for the Memories" promotion gives travelers $20 cash for gas for staying with participating innkeepers.

In Colorado, Aspen is giving visitors $50 in gas vouchers. In West Virginia, people who booked a visit to Snowshoe Mountain by June 22 were rewarded with $25 in their "Fill Up Your Summer With Fun" promotion.

Bethel, Snowshoe, Aspen and Big Bear Lake are all home to ski resorts, but they'd like to get people to visit in the summer, as well.

Robin Zinchuk of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce said there's more to the town than Sunday River. There's also golfing, canoeing, kayaking, fishing and plenty of hiking in the mountains of western Maine.

The gas promotion was designed to grab the attention of travelers headed to Maine's rocky coast and give them a nudge to drive inland, she said. The money provides for enough gas for a round trip from New England's population centers.

"It's a gimmick. It really is," said Zinchuk. "But it's the truth: We'll give people 20 dollars for their gas."

Upton

by Eleanor LaComte

Those lazy, hazy days of summer are here.

We wished for warm weather and were rewarded with very hot and humid conditions. Be careful what you wish for!

Maggie and the cat have not made friends. The last time I saw Kitty she was 20 feet up in a birch tree. Maggie looked innocent, but I know she chased that cat.

Larry and Mary Davis hosted a family get-together at their camp on the lake on Father's Day, which incidentally was Larry's "39th" birthday. We can't count over 39 up here. Guests were: Miami, Craig, and Aria Shufelt; Aron and Leo from Meredith; and the Largesse family, Mike, Perdita and son Mark from Errol. Vernon, Tammy and Emma Davis also attended. Larry received a formula for a product that discourages mosquitoes. It's a garlic smelling liquid and Larry says it works well. I've got to get some of that good stuff.

The Ladies Aid held their annual business meeting on Monday, June 27. Members present were: Simone Lavallee, Lucille Largesse, Jerry Kenney, Virginia Williamson and yours truly. It was a lively meeting with many plans for the Craft and Bake Sale. Lucille has again made a quilt for the raffle. Simone supplied refreshments for this meeting. The election of officers for 2005 were: president, Simone Lavallee; vice president, Virginia Williamson; secretary, Ellie LeComte; treasurer, Jerry Kenney; and Lucille Largesse was designated coordinator. The more than warm weather has benefited the gardens. Lupine is in full bloom with many colored flowers. Hanging baskets are thriving. I thought my fuchsia, a gift from Pok Sun Lane, was dead but it had a miraculous recovery and is very pretty. The yellow lilies at the Tucker Camp are looking good.

The Planning Board met on Friday, June 24, and one building permit was issued.

Many folks escaped the heat of the summer by swimming in the lake. The water was cold at first but as your body temperature adjusted, it was very refreshing.

"First Dip" is always a shock from the cold water. We could hear Ginny's screams clear across the lake as she took the plunge.

We have a robin's nest and a phoebe nest under the eaves of the roof. Roger Lavallee went up lake the other day and took some great pictures with a telephoto lens, of a loon nest, a loon exercising her wings and a huge moose emerging from the lake.

Margaret Mitchell called and expects to be back in Upton very soon. Tex Fogwill, her friend, has been ill most of the winter. He is feeling much better.

"Bird of the Week" is Mother Loon who has been in confinement during this very hot weather. I hope her eggs are not hard-boiled.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Wow, what an unbelievable week, hot, hot! Just in time for summer vacation.

Sympathy is extended to Audie Arsenault of East Andover, for the recent loss of his brother, "Cussie" Arsenault.

Saturday, July 2, there will be a parade, fishing derby and several other activities in Errol, to celebrate the Fourth of July. There will be fireworks at dusk. Donations will be accepted.

The following was inadvertently left out from the list of awards at the Alumni Banquet held a few weeks ago in Andover. Alumni of the Year award was presented to Roger and Dottie Mills. Congratulations!

Andrew Farrington has won this year's John B. Fox Scholarship at the University of Maine at Orono. This is an endowed scholarship awarded each year by the university. Andrew is the son of Keith and Janet Farrington.

The Andover Boys' Little League baseball team won a home game last Tuesday against neighboring Rumford Point.

The Farm team girls lost their game on Thursday in Rumford against the Rumford team, Mountain Dews. The girls have an away game tonight at Dixfield Middle school.

That's it for news this week. Have a safe Fourth of July.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

Well, it is 9:30 on Sunday evening and I am finally getting around to writing my column.

The air-conditioner and fans are running and I just checked my thermometer and it read 76 degrees. Glad it is cooling off! I stayed most of today inside, but yesterday my husband and I decided to venture to the Rotary Yard Sale at Telstar. They had lots of good things and we managed to find a couple of things that we just could not live without.

In the morning on Saturday,

we had a little impromptu excursion with Steve McLain, Bill and Gale Tout, Paul and Cynthia Handlen and Danny Cole. I was talking to the Touts the other day and they mentioned the "Three Stone Cemetery" and would like to know the exact location of it. Cynthia said she had been trying to find it, and since Danny is in charge of the town cemeteries, he wanted to go too. My brother, Steve, had been there many years ago and decided to go with us. Last year, Hugh and I went looking for this cemetery and after much searching, we found it. I was only about 10 years old (a long time ago!) when I was last there.

Now for a little background on the "Three Stone Cemetery." For lack of a better name, this is what we called it when we were doing research and writing the books for the Bicentennial last year. Emeline Heath, who passed away several years ago and a relative of mine, was the one who told me about these stones and showed them to me. The story of these graves was handed down to her from her father and grandfather and she was told that they were early settlers. She wrote an article for the Bethel Historical Society in 1981, and the excerpt regarding these graves goes as follows: "I remember some graves in a pasture on the North Road near the center of the town. They were marked by rough stones but no one knew the names or how long they had been there." There seems to be no other record of who they might be.

Most people that know me, know that I work for SAD44 Adult Education at Telstar in Bethel. We are looking forward to a busy July and August. The Learning Center will start up the Summer Session on July 5. There has been an ad in The Citizen the past couple of weeks. Brie Wiesman is teaching an art class for us this summer. The class is for high school credit but will be open to the public if there is room. Some of the things she plans on doing sound like fun, and if I can fit it into my schedule, maybe I will join them.

Last year on this date right about this time of the evening, the 2004 Gilead Bicentennial Celebration was coming to an end. It had been a great day. It was also about the time that my mother, Mildred McLain, passed away while the crowds watched the fireworks display.

Tomorrow is Monday, June 27, and I have to be sure to check in with a couple of people to wish them Happy Birthday. One of them is my brother, Steve McLain, and the other is Sue Saunders. I need to check in with Sue to see how she is feeling after her latest trip to the hospital.

The following ordinances were passed: Maine Floodplain Management, Maine Planning Board, Maine Shoreland Zoning, Maine Lot Size and Setback and Maine Subdivision. The article to abolish the Planning Board was defeated 33 to 32 votes. The Planning Board will remain in place and hopefully will reduce the workload of the selectmen.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. If I hurry, I will get this column in the mail today.

Tuesday, July 5, there is a public supper at the North Waterford Church vestry from 5 to 6:30 p.m. July 3, the church services will be at North Waterford Church and for the month of July. July 17, there will be an Oxford County United Parish meeting at the vestry at 11:30 a.m. after church service and coffee. July 19 will be the next public supper there.

Now on July 4 (Monday) there will be a pancake breakfast at the former Grange Hall in North Lovell. This is a yearly thing and they have bacon, sausage and eggs also. Afterward is the flea market and cookie sales. It is always fun to go there and have breakfast and then browse around for bargains and visit with friends.

Well people, I guess you could say that this is bear country. Brenda Files called me and said she had one on her porch one night last week. I guess he was moving her chairs around looking for her bird feed. She loves feeding her birds and she has lots of them around. But, it is kind of scary when they come that close.

Over to Evergreen Valley a bear smashed a door in at the storage building to get in to the garbage bags. Duke Meserve, the night watchman, found this out early one morning when he went up to check on the building. The bear was there and came out right in his face and then went off into the woods. After many calls, a person from Bridgton came right over and trapped him in a baited cage and took him far, far away. I guess I will be careful now when I take the dog out late at night or real early in the morning.

You know what, Frances Grant had some fresh peas this week. She got them from Westons Farm Stand, also some asparagus. I had some asparagus from there and it was wicked good.

Gotta hurry now. Why do I leave this until the last thing? Talk to you next week. You keep it happening and call me and I will print it if it is printable.

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb
It sure is summer with temperatures in the 90 and 100 range for a few days. The thermometer is in the shade on the back window. No complaints from me.

About 20 members of the West Paris Historical Society enjoyed a potluck supper at their building on Main Street. The story of my trip to London went well.

Beverly and Vince Stevens had a day out last week and I visited with Georgia Thayer.

Beryl Bonney and Dorene Merrill spent a night at Beryl's camp on Round Pond in Locke Mills.

I joined Myrtle Cadenelli at a cookout at her mobile home park in Norway Saturday evening.

The Rev. Gasta, accompanied by Sally Nealand, flew to Nashville, Tenn., on Wednesday. She is there to be with her two sisters and brother who live there. She will receive medical treatment and we all wish her well.

A message from Buffy: "My cat carrier was brought down from the attic and Iran to hide. My mother caught me and locked me into it and put me into the front seat of the car.

She tied the seat belt through the handle and took me for a ride. I don't like to ride for I get car sick.

"At the vet's she put me on a slippery table and the buzzing of clippers started. The table was soon covered with my thick winter coat. I stood it as long as I could then started fighting and tried to get away. Mother only held me tighter. It wasn't too bad until the vet cut the hair on my belly.

"No one touches my belly for I will reward them with scratches from my long nails in my large paws. A large tick was found on my right hip. So that is what was sore and making me limp.

"What a disgusting thing to do to a long-haired cat, but I am much lighter. They finally let me willingly get back into my carrier. I rode home quietly and was glad to be free again."

Every one laughs at this once large cat who is now long and skinny.

The West Paris Soap Box Derby held a special Father's Day race. The kids and their dads enjoyed a day on the track. Cheyanne Henderson and her dad, Jr. Henderson, raced against each other. Cheyanne came down the hill with a great big smile; she knew she would get to the finish before dad. The race went great; the weather was perfect for the day.

For the Scottie division, Mykala Marois came in third, Krystin Noyes second and Kaylee Millett first. For the senior division, Ashley Collette came in second and Kami Marois came in first.

Thank you to Jason Henderson, Barry Collette, Don Marois, Dennis Henderson, Nancy Henderson, Jr. Henderson, Cindi Cox, Paul Cox, Keith McDonald, Lisa Henderson, and Chip Dodge for all their help with the race.

The next race will be July 10, followed by July 24. As always registration and weigh-in is held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Race starts at 11 a.m.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

A special 21 plus, Ice Cream and Birthday Cake party was held at the Town Hall for Anita Clark on the date of the Full Moon, June 22 — which was under the astrological sign of Cancer. Guests attending were: Karlene Bachelder, Reta Berry, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, and Sarah, Jordan and three-week-old baby Payton.

Sylvia II would like to find a new home for a back cat. A very loving cat with humans — but needs to be in a home where there are no other cats or dogs. Her name is Spooky — answers to Spooks. She has been spayed and inoculated and will make a welcome addition to any family with the above living conditions. She also loves the out-of-doors and is a good catcher of mice. Please call 824-2320 if interested.

On Friday, Teen Gauthier Woodruff and husband Mark with their children, Rosanna and Emile, stopped in for a pleasant visit. They were on their way to Umbagog campsite for the weekend in the outdoors. They are hoping to be back for the Newry Bicentennial Celebration.

Elise Berry is at home and though she was unable to dance in her recital this year her dad, David, saw to it that she was quite comfortable and able to watch her friends dance in this end-of-the-year recital. It was a three-hour event, but she stayed through to the end. In fact, the recital was dedicated to her. Elise hopes to go swimming at some point this summer — we wish you well and send lots of love your way.

I've been told that a set of twins is claiming the Virgil Konkrights as grandparents — many congratulations.

The Barrys from Cape Cod are enjoying this weekend in Newry. Also, many, many thanks to the Branch Road Phantom lawn beautifier — never heard a sound!

The Newry Bicentennial is soon upon us. The dates are July 8-10. The kick-off celebration will begin on Friday, July 8, at 6 p.m. at the Covered Bridge followed by an ice cream social at the Sunday River Inn. Lots of events are planned for this very special weekend. Anyone wishing to make a float and participate in the parade is welcome to do so. The event will start Saturday at 11 a.m. not too far north above the Grange Hall on Route 26. Anyone wishing to set up as a vendor is welcome to do so — please bring your own table — no admission fee to do this. There will be a Baked Bean Supper at the Grange on Saturday evening.

See a more in-depth write-up in The Citizen for all the events.

A new bridge is to be built where the Branch Brook joins Bear River. The work will start after the Fourth of July Weekend — traffic lights have been set up on both sides of the present bridge.

quite surprised when six fire trucks parked in front of their antique shop, the Lyon's Den. No fire was showing in the four-story building and the thermal imaging camera indicated no hot spots. Fire Department personnel searched the building and found nothing. No fire. That was good. As it turned out, the people reporting the fire may have seen smoke from a barbecue that was behind a neighbor's house. The fire trucks turned around and went home.

Reports of a bear roaming the area continue with bird-feeders wrecked on sites along Main Street and at Howard Pond. Beth Pelletier, Demetrios Handanos, and David Driscoll all reported seeing a bear cross Howard Pond Road at different times. A moose was struck and killed by a chip truck when the moose got onto Main Street in the vicinity of Just a Hobby Antiques and Gordie Howe's Store.

Congratulations go to Jeremy Barlow upon being awarded the $500 Hanover Scholarship (created from the defunct Community Hall Association and Oxford Bear Knights of Pythias) at Region 9 School of Applied Technology in Mexico. Jeremy completed the metal trades course at the school and is a graduate of Mountain Valley High School in Rumford. He is the son of Peter and Debbie Barlow.

Congratulations also go to Chris Gould for winning the regional culinary arts cook-off. He is one of four national finalists going to San Antonio, Texas, to compete for the culinary arts student of the year. He won the regional cook-off with his presentation of tenderloin of lamb. Chris is the son of Scott and Carol Gould.

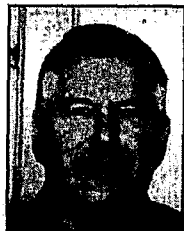

Barb and Irv Robinson have arrived in Traverse City, Mich., where they plan a few days of rest before continuing their bicycle trip to the West Coast.

The Hanover Select Board met last Wednesday for a very busy meeting. Members of the Planning Board presented their updated subdivision ordinance. The board reviewed a recent board inspection of roads with D.A. Wilson, Hanover's road contractor. They also reviewed the Howard Pond Road construction plans as presented by Main-Land developers. The board also learned that the Second Bridge on the Howard Pond Road might soon need to be replaced because of rust and decay of the 10-foot metal culvert. However, at the present time the condition is not dangerous.

There is a Public Hearing scheduled on Monday, July 18, at 6 p.m. at the Hanover Town House, 12 Howard Pond Road, for the purpose of explaining the proposed Town of Hanover Subdivision Ordinance. At 6:30 p.m. the same day there will be a Special Town Meeting so that voters can vote on the proposed ordinance. The Planning Board has been working since last winter preparing the update to the old ordinance that was last updated in 1987.

My niece, Elsie Aylward, was blessed with a two-week visit by her granddaughter, Madison Flynn, who now lives in Myrtle Beach, S.C. Elsie flew down there to visit her oldest daughter, Eileen Flynn, and brought Madison back to Mason with her.

Madison's family lived in Poland (Maine) until about a year ago, when they moved to South Carolina to get away from these Maine winters. But, Madison still loves Maine and had a great time visiting her cousins, her "Grammie" and "Great-Grammie" Ina and her Aunt Dianne Merrill.

Elsie and Dianne rented a camp on South Pond for one week, so the kids could play in the water. Then, it was back to Mason, where Madison helped Grammie and Great-Grammie feed the fish in their small trout ponds and do all those other fun things you can do in the country. Grammie hated to see Madison get on the plane for home.

I'd like to nominate Roger Conant for the "Bethel Citizen Good Samaritan of the Week" award. Last Friday morning we were headed through Bethel on the way to an appointment in South Paris to get my truck windshield replaced. We came over Grover Hill and got to the foot of Mill Hill about 7:15 a.m. There we spied our good Samaritan nominee, still in his "jammies," waving his newspaper, either swatting mosquitoes or directing traffic, while he escorted a very large box turtle (or some other large turtle) across the street at the bridge over Mill Brook.

First of all I want to congratulate all the 2005 graduates. Education is so important in this age we live in today and I am sure it has not been as easy as it was when I was in school, and I thought it was hard enough then. Anyhow, well done, ladies and gentlemen.

We finally are getting some warm weather. Of course now that we are, the first thing I do is put on the air conditioner which in a way does not make much sense, except that we cannot seem to get more than two or three days of lovely dry weather when it turns to muggy, but at least we are getting some sun.

I have been enjoying the two geese families who swim together. The other day there was an adult, five babies, another adult, six babies, and then two more adults bringing up the rear. They swam to the bridge and then had attempted to cross the road. I watched them for a moment, but the car seemed to be making them nervous, so I drove on.

Matt and Mandy Conkright returned home Wednesday after spending nearly a week in Virginia. While there they attended the high school graduation of Elise Cobb, daughter of Jim and Lynn Cobb. Ricky stayed with his aunt and uncle, Calla and Jeff Tyler.

Well, my daughter, Marcia Smith, has come and gone. She arrived on Saturday, June 4, in Lewiston and Ralph and I picked her up at the bus station, which, unbeknownst to us, had moved from the boonies of Lisbon Street to the middle of town on Bates Street. We managed to miss it on the first pass, but went around and found a parking spot the second time. To me it makes more sense to have it in town where people might be able to walk to it. Marcia said she almost went on to Portland because she was not aware the station had moved. After we picked her up we went to the Tin Tin for lunch.

On Sunday as Marcia and I were returning from church, we suddenly found ourselves stranded at the end of the Jed Martin Road. The alternator on the car just quit. We had a lady stop and offered her cell phone, so we called Ralph and then Marcia stayed with the car and the lady took me back to the ball field where I could sit in the shade, as it was a hot day. Ralph did manage to get the car charged enough to get it to the ball field parking lot where it died again, so we just left it there. I made an S.O.S. call to Art Henley, my mechanic, and told him how Marcia and I had planned some trips and he managed to get the car and have us back on the road by Tuesday. I am sure he put in the extra hours with his busy schedule and I was very appreciative of his thoughtfulness. Marcia and I got to see some places and people we could not have otherwise.

Last Thursday, Marcia and I went to Lewiston where we visited Norma Peterson in the morning, had lunch at the Chick-a-dee, and then visited Carol and Dan Hatch in Turner in the afternoon. On Friday, we visited Ersel Murphy in Bethel. She also visited her aunt, Carolyn Colby while she was here.

On Saturday, I drove her to Newport to meet her husband, Jon Smith. They stayed the night in Bangor and I headed back home. I did not know but what I might mind the long trip back home alone, but I did not and I only got off track once. I made a wrong turn at Norridgewock or however you spell it but I quickly got back on track and made it home okay. However, I have been having trouble with my back ever since so I blame it on the long drive.

Debbie and Owen Brown's grandson, Toby Walker, celebrated his 4th birthday on June 5 (his birthday is really June 1) with a party at the Brown's home. Those present to help him celebrate were Tracy and Toby Walker, and John, Debbie and Owen Brown, Ada Cummings, Frank Walker and foster daughter, Cheryl, and Stephanie Coriveau and son, Austin.

Albany

by Dana & Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. Yes, indeed, summer is here! The kids got out of school on the 21st (first day of summer) and the weather has been very summery since. Perhaps a bit too summery on some days, as we see so many swelter in the heat.

We want to welcome to our neighborhood the family that moved into the new home across the way from us. We haven't had the chance to greet them personally, but, we're certain that they will love their home on top of the hill. It's a very nice area, and the neighbors are great.

The Church suppers will be beginning in a couple of weeks, starting July 14. So, get your taste buds ready for some great home cooking. We know, we're looking forward to the suppers.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

Greenwood City

by Rena Curtis

Sorry we missed you last week. People have been busy with the heat and going to doctors' appointments and having surgeries.

Wayne Hakala had gallbladder surgery recently and is home doing well.

Brad Paine has had knee surgery and is doing well, but is not out playing golf yet.

Ann Holt is in Bar Harbor for Special Ed teachers' meetings and will be getting a reward for outstanding teacher for the state of Maine.

Fay and Leonas Holt are doing well. David was there Sunday to put in some air conditioning, so maybe it will be better for them.

Rena was back in the hospital for a few days but is home now at Albert and Marie's. While she was at the hospital the doctor said that she should have red nail polish on. So when she got here, Mandee did her nails and the two girls did everybody's toenails. So when you see different ones just ask what color have you got?

Lillian was at the hospital and came back to Albert and Marie's to see mom.

Carl, Betty and Ray were here Saturday night, and Steve Cogswell was up Sunday to see mom.

Kenny called and is planning to be here in July.

Rena got a postcard from Milt and Eleanor, and they are having fun.

Rena has another appointment in Scarborough on Friday at the Cancer Center.

That is it for another week, stay cool and dry.

Quote for the week: Perhaps the best way to live happily ever after is not to be after too much.

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

Summer has come upon us with a vengeance. Listening to the morning (or evening) weather on the TV, one would think we are on a different planet out here in the wilds of Waterford/Albany/Bethel, etc. I had to laugh when they proclaimed Friday to be the first day the temperature had reached 90. The week before, it was 95 in the shade here. This past weekend it reached 100 just before we closed the Transfer Station. We were some hot!

To that end, please arrive at the transfer station so we can leave on time. Remember we have been out there all day and we do not have the advantage of air-conditioned breaks.

A TASTE OF YEMEN—Valerie Forman's World Studies class at Telstar High School spent several weeks at the end of the school year e-mailing with Thomas Krajewski, the U.S. ambassador to Yemen. The students sent him questions each week asking about life in that country. "This experience has been educational and fun," said Abby Wentworth and April Bolstridge. "It has helped us learn more about the everyday life of the Yemeni people. We have learned that the women don't socialize with the men. We think that one of the most interesting quotes he sent us was, 'Yemenis sometimes tell me that they love Americans but they hate the U.S. government.'" Krajewski also sent photos. Top left, raisin dealers in a marketplace; top right, boys at a school peer over the wall. A sampling of the information the class has received from the ambassador: gas (subsidized by the government) is 73 cents a gallon; Yemenis love Pizza Hut and KFC, although the food is expensive; there is American music available for sale, but Yemenis are "shocked and disturbed by some of our song lyrics and the dialogue in some movies;" Yemenis do not keep many pets and don't understand Americans' desire to do so. A description of the "souk," or marketplace in a Yemeni city: "Turn the corner and enter the spice market. Breathe in the smells of cinnamon, turmeric, cumin, cardamom, and fennel emanating from all the barrels and baskets of the vendors." Krajewski said Yemenis are "friendly, interesting, hospitable, humorous, intelligent, and have a strong sense of national and personal dignity. They laugh easily, and just as easily express pride in their country and Arab culture and history. They are deeply religious without imposing their personal beliefs on others. And, most of all, I admire the strength of their families. Cousins, aunts, and uncles are just as close to a Yemeni as are his brothers, sisters and parents." Krajewski also describes some of the greetings used among the people, including "Wa Sabah al-Fool" — "A morning of beans." Yemenis eat a lot of beans, very similar to New England baked beans, he said, and they are a popular breakfast food.

So give us a break and do not arrive at five of closing with a truckload of brush or recycling or even shingles. We do not appreciate it at 90 degrees after a busy day. Thanks.

This week and weekend is a busy one. Tonight, Thursday the 30th, Mountain Poets will not meet at Fare Share Commons in Norway. That night Duncan Slade's art show opens at the Norway library. Both start at 7 p.m. Ken Nye is reading at Books 'n Things in Oxford.

In Waterford on the 4th of July one can go to the Waterford Library for its annual Book Sale from 8 a.m. to 12 noon. Hardcover books will be $2 and paperbacks $1 each. The library is on Routes 35/37 in Waterford Flats near the old town hall.

One can also go to the first of the summer breakfasts at the Wilkins House on Plummer Hill. Breakfast is served from 7:30 to 10 a.m. After that breakfasts will be July 20, Aug. 3 and 17. Cost is $5 per adult and $3 for children 5-10. There will also be a yard sale and raffle.

The Congregational Church will have hot dogs and hamburgers on the Commons during the parade.

The parade will be starting at 10 a.m. on the Commons and following that the Waterford PTO will hold a Duck Race. Ducks are available for $5 from any PTO members. Proceeds will be used to purchase an announcement sign for Waterford Memorial School. It will sit outside the school so everyone can know what is occurring at the school. Ducks are also available at Springer's and Melby's stores. FMI: call Nancy Forrest at 583-6551.

There is also a Public Supper that evening at North Waterford Congregational Church. Cost is $7 for adults and $3.50 for under 12. A perfect way to end the day.

Remember to drink plenty of fluids on these hot days. We are almost drowning in them at the transfer station.

Bridgton is having the 4th annual Road Race on the 4th. More power to anyone who can run a race at 80 or 90 degrees. It is followed by a parade and town festivities. The race begins at 8 a.m. at Main Street and Route 117. Good luck to all.

For the future, we can look forward to the World's Fair. It comes to Waterford July 22-24. It includes the pig scramble, steer and ox pulls, draft horses, baking contests and more. There is dancing and music at night, too.

The World's Fair dances have begun. The schedule is out and the next one is July 9 with the Rocking Road Runners. Dances begin at 8 p.m. and end at midnight. Cost is $16 per couple or $8 each. Refreshments are available. FMI: 674-2941 or 674-2453.

Enjoy the 4th of July and have a safe holiday.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday evening. The program was School Daze. Plans for the July 16 Old Tyme Fair were discussed. There will be homemade food sale, crafts, Christmas gifts, baskets, 50/50 raffle, many raffles, paid lunch, kids games, celebration balloons, trash and treasures, entertainment by the Grange Band and more. Come join the fun. This benefits the Grange. There will be horseback riding if weather permits.

Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on July 7 at the Grange Hall at 11:30 a.m., with dinner by the Grange. Program: Game Party. Please bring items for prizes. New members always welcome.

School is out. Watch out for the children and bicycles.

Joyce Howe helped Annella Burnham and Mary Billings watch the Historical Society Museum on Saturday. She did a lot of cleaning. Seven people came in. The museum has a very fine collection of furniture. Visit and see for yourself. It ranges from country items to elegant antiques. The chairs and table once in local author George Allen England's camp is included. He was a friend of Hemingway. They have quite a number of things to do with music from musical instruments to autographed pictures of famous singers and musicians who frequented the summer music camp. They have tools, household items, farm implements and photos of the mills (inside and out), so it covers the work life of the people in the area. They also have the research from the late Ruby Emery for you to examine. You can learn much about Bryant Pond in her writings.

Nancy Willard has joined the Historical Society as a life member. Welcome, Nancy. Society meetings are the second Saturday of each month at 7 p.m. in the museum. All are welcome. Museum summer hours are 1 to 4 p.m. each Saturday. Buy something in the little museum store or leave a donation to help the society.

The Historical Society plans an active summer both the Flea Market on July 16 and History Day on Aug. 6. They are a small group but try to undertake an ambitious schedule designed to benefit the public. Every summer many visitors visit the museum. Curator Larry Billings has sold quite a few tickets on the Loon Wall hanging. Eleanor Farnum has given a cheerleader's jacket from Woodstock High School. At the Flea Market on July 16 at the Historical Society there will be tables to rent, food sale, etc. Call 665-2450 for more information.

Too hot for much activity! Trapper's Weekend this year is Aug. 19-21 at Neil Olson's home on the East Bethel Road.

Barbara Honkala will celebrate a birthday on July 9.

Jason Crockett and family have moved back to their home near Arlene Harrington for the summer.

Andre and Flossie Bernier spent the weekend (June 25-26) at their camp in Upton. It was much cooler and less humid there.

Alder River Grange had a regular meeting on June 24 with election of officers. The following offices were filled: master, James Lowe; overseer, Peter Haines; lecturer, Ruby Coolidge; mister steward, Alvin Stevens; assistant steward, Nina Mollicone; L.A. steward, Brenda Dyer; chaplain, Nina Grover; treasurer, Stanley Howe; secretary, Nancy Mercer; gatekeeper, Richard Carter; Ceres, Betsy Foster; Pomona, Dot Boyce; Flora, Lynn Mason-Courtney; and three-year executive committee, Jarrod Crockett.

Maybe the weather will be a little bit cooler this week. Have a nice week. God Bless the Troops.

South Woodstock

My granddaughter, Sarah Lynch, is taking paralegal classes in Auburn.

She says she enjoys it very much.

School is out for the summer. Most of the students are glad to have a little time off to just have fun before the next year.

My sister, Dottie Critser, Tempe, Ariz., has had a stroke. She seems to be coming along quite well but will be in rehab in Mesa, Ariz., for at least three more weeks. I wish her a complete and fast recovery.

Kellie Wing came by for Father's Day last Sunday. We all enjoyed pizza. Vinny Lima also joined us. We had a good time visiting. Rick was away and will make it this coming Sunday.

The Westies won the ballgame against Auburn last Sunday. The score was 5-4.

Congrats to Oxford Hills baseball team for winning the Class A crown against Westbrook on June 21. Good job.

Richard and I went to WalMart and purchased a new 32-inch RCA TV. We now have three.

Thanks to Jeff Campbell for mowing the South Woodstock cemetery and also mowing around the sign at the corner. Everything looks great.

White Mountain National Forest

The White Mountain National Forest announces the start of the summer Wednesday Night with a Ranger speaker series on July 6 at the Appalachian Mountain Club Pinkham Notch Visitor Center.

The season starts with presentation by U.S. Forest Service Wilderness Specialist Dave Neely. Neely will talk about the features of Wilderness and the values to be found in these special places.

The White Mountain National Forest's five Wilderness areas total about 114,000 acres with many trails accessing them. Recreationists should know what to expect when they enter a Wilderness — trails, signage, group size, and camping are managed to protect Wilderness values. Come learn some of the history behind the Wilderness Act and what makes these "enduring resources" different from other backcountry areas.

Wednesday Night with Ranger programs are presented by the Forest Service every Wednesday evening beginning at 8 p.m. at the Appalachian Mountain Club's Pinkham Notch Visitor Center on Route 16, 11 miles south of Gorham. White Mountain National Forest rangers look forward to the opportunity to share what's going on in the mountains. Programs are free and all local residents, campers, and visitors are welcome. Programs are about an hour long and include complimentary popcorn and time for conversation about the evening's topic or any other national forest issue.

Ranger Station at (603) 466-2713, TTY (603) 466-2856, or the Appalachian Mountain Club at (603) 466-2721.

The summer program schedule is:

July 6 — "What's Wilderness?" What makes a Wilderness so special, and how do you know you're there? Presented by Wilderness Specialist Dave Neely.

July 13 — "Leave No Trace."

Be a steward of our precious public lands. These experts share simple low-impact techniques for outdoor enthusiasts of all ages. Presented by Subaru/Leave No Trace Traveling Trainers.

July 20 — "Bears in the Woods." Learn about the habits and haunts of these White Mountain creatures, and how you can help keep them wild and free. Presented by Conservation Educators Susan Spruce-Eland and Pat Nasta.

July 27 — "HikeSafe — There and Back." Don't become a search and rescue statistic — know the code for getting home safely. Easy things to do and have that can make a difference in your safety. Presented by Conservation Educator Clare Long.

Aug. 3 — "A Day in the Life of a Backcountry Ranger." Ever wish you could get paid to hike? Come see what it's really all about. See the backcountry, morning until night, from a ranger's point of view. Presented by a White Mountain National Forest Backcountry Ranger.

Aug. 10 — "Fire in the Forest." Is fire in the forest a friend or a threat? Find out what's up with smoke and fire in the White Mountains, hear tales of a forest firefighter, and play with the gear he packs along. Presented by Fire Management Technician Chris O'Brien.

Aug. 17 — "The Greatest Good." Celebrating 100 years of the Forest Service from the days of rangers on horseback in the remotest places, to today's complex balancing act delivering "the greatest good for the greatest number in the long run." Presented by Conservation Educator Clare Long.

Aug. 24 — "Open Forum — A Conversation with the Deputy Forest Supervisor." He will share his perspective on key topics, and open it up to hear what's on your mind.

Presented by Deputy Forest Supervisor Barnie Gyant.

Aug. 31 — "Leave No Trace." Caring for the land, where ever you are, whatever your favorite outdoor activity. From long backpacks to afternoon picnics by the river, you can do your part to leave no trace. Presented by Backcountry Ranger Matt Schomburg.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

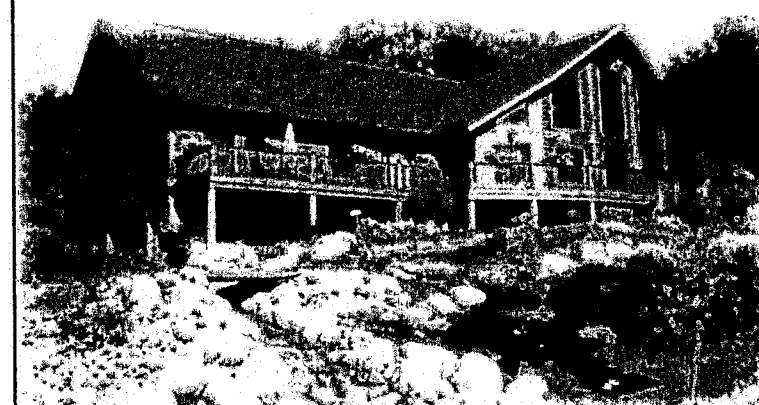

WHEN TO TAKE A WALK!

Your agent calls to say he is bringing prospective buyers to see your home at 2:00pm. You quickly straighten up the house and run the dishwasher, etc. What should you do then? If you have to let them into the house, take a drive or walk the dog!

Many owners think they should linger around while their home is being shown. They are afraid that the Realtor might miss the storage shelves in the basement or forget to point out the beautiful new floor in the kitchen. It is better for the agent to miss something than for you to be ushering the buyers around, so resist the temptation to stay while your house is being shown.

Buyers usually base their decision to buy on an attraction that often has more to do with emotions than pure logic, and a lot goes on between buyer and agent during a showing. The buyer needs to evaluate the home's pluses and minuses, and the agent needs the opportunity to work with the buyer's objections. This process cannot take place comfortably if the seller is on the scene.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
